AWARD-WINNING LITIGATION PR

Maltin tackle the most sensitive and difficult cases, clients praise their speed and state that they always seek to tease out the 'optimum story arc' for clients

-SPEAR'S HIGH NET WORTH GUIDE

INTRODUCTION

Maltin PR is an award-winning international litigation PR agency with offices in London, Washington, D.C., Chicago and Santa Barbara. We specialize in complex international cross-border litigation, when the stakes are high.

Founded in London 17 years ago by leading litigation PR expert Tim Maltin, our international team comprises former senior award-winning journalists from media organizations including the BBC and other national and international media outlets. Our team also includes public and government affairs specialists and key individuals drawn strategically from reputation management and corporate communications backgrounds.

The Firm is ranked in Band 1 for Litigation PR and Communications in the UK Chambers Litigation Support Guide 2024, and is also ranked for Litigation PR and Communications in the Chambers Global Guide.

Maltin PR is listed in Lawdragon's Global 100 Leaders in Legal Strategy & Consulting as one of the top five Crisis Communications firms in London, and the Firm recently won a 'PR Agency of the Year' award at the CityWealth Brand Management and Reputation Awards.

Our U.S. presence is led by veteran communicators who drove the narratives that shaped public opinion around some of America's most consequential legal battles. From advising the 9/11 families in their pursuit of justice against international state sponsors of terrorism, to leading media strategy in what became known as the "Bitcoin Trial of the Century", a $66 billion case, we bring a deep understanding of the legal, reputational, and media dynamics that come into play when legal professionals need the competitive edge in high-stakes litigation.

Our team also led the PR for the RICO hacking claims against a sovereign wealth fund and its advisers, recently achieving multi-million dollar settlements on both sides of the Atlantic.

THE INTERNATIONAL MEDIA LANDSCAPE

Our relationships with key members of the international press have been carefully cultivated over many years, with a substantial number spanning decades.

We are recognized across the world for our deep understanding of both the legal and the media landscape. We are trusted by journalists, in large part because we employ former senior journalists, to act as the main point of contact between our client and the press.

NORTH AMERICA

Our teams in Washington, D.C., Chicago and California have unparalleled connections with the main North American media organizations.

We are recognized across the world for our deep understanding of both the legal and the media landscape. We are trusted by journalists, in large part because we employ former senior journalists, to act as the main point of contact between our clients and the press.

Partner and Head of U.S. Operations Ryan Hughes is a senior strategic communications advisor with over 13 years’ experience in litigation PR, political communications, corporate reputation, and crisis management. Based in Chicago, Ryan is leading Maltin PR’s expansion across the U.S. legal market, serving as the firm’s primary contact for American law firms and litigation teams. He has advised global corporations, high-profile individuals, and state entities across matters involving cross-border litigation, regulatory scrutiny, and reputational risk. His recent work includes litigation communications support for the 9/11 Families in their pursuit of justice against foreign sponsors of terrorism, as well as serving as lead communications advisor during the landmark Bitcoin Trial of the Century. Ryan brings a blend of legal fluency, media expertise, and client-first strategy to every engagement.

Senior Partner Josh Block, who is based out of our Washington D.C. offices, has represented domestic and international corporations and sovereign governments, handling complex matters of international law, policy and public affairs from Africa to the Middle East, Latin America and Europe, and of course in the United States. These battles have played out both internationally and domestically, and while confidential, included crisis and long term strategic communications efforts involving deposed governments and alleged coups, political campaigns, legal disputes, policy outcomes, trade and commercial conflicts and issues involving international government bodies, including the United Nations.

We frequently collaborate with journalists at publications including:

EUROPE

Over the past decade, we have been instructed on some of the most significant and reputationally challenging litigation in Europe.

Our multilingual capabilities enable us to liaise with journalists in languages including French, Spanish, German, Italian, Danish, Portuguese, Russian, Czech, Slovak, Arabic and Farsi.

UK

Maltin PR's team of communications experts have fostered close working relationships with all of the UK's national media and reporting teams, as well as the London bureaus of international newspapers.

Our Senior Partner, Clive Coleman, was the BBC's legal correspondent for over a decade. He won multiple awards for his reporting and clear analysis of complex legal issues and cases. Clive was the face and voice of legal coverage and analysis across the BBC news output on radio, television and the website. Partner Gaetan Portal was a BBC journalist and producer for more than 30 years working on stories from around the world for TV, Radio and Online.

SUPPORTING 9/11 FAMILIES FIGHTING FOR JUSTICE AGAINST STATE SPONSORS OF TERRORISM

We have been supporting the 9/11 Families and Survivors United for Justice Against Terrorism, which consists of over 9,000 family members and survivors seeking the truth, accountability and justice against all perpetrators of the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks.

The group led the lobbying effort urging Congress to pass a law that would allow the families to seek justice against the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, which they believed provided material support, directly or indirectly, to the perpetrators of the terrorist attacks on 9/11.

On September 28, 2016, the United States Congress passed the Justice Against Sponsors of Terrorism Act (JASTA), overriding President Barack Obama's veto. Prior to JASTA, the FSIA provided that a foreign state could not be sued in US courts for an act of international terrorism unless it had first been designated by the US government as a "state sponsor of terrorism." JASTA (Section 3) eliminates this limitation. As a result, any foreign state may now be sued in U.S. courts for acts of international terrorism that cause injury in the United States.

We worked as part of the communications team representing the families in the litigation, to expose the Saudi astroturf campaign against JASTA and ensure lawmakers were aware of how they were being misled by agents of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia on this critical issue.

We were responsible for ensuring that the Justice Against Sponsors of Terrorism Act (JASTA) was not repealed or amended, utilizing a comprehensive strategy targeting specific reporters and outlets that we either have a strong working relationship with or share a common point of view with on this issue. This enabled us to clarify any public misconceptions about the law in the press while also exposing the extensive lobbying campaign employed by the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and their strategy to convince lawmakers to reconsider the law.

ACTING FOR SOUTH AMERICAN CENTRAL BANK AGAINST THE BANK OF ENGLAND IN LITIGATION OVER $2.5BN OF GOLD

We were retained by the legal team of a Central Bank preparing to file a geopolitically-charged multi-billion dollar litigation in London's High Court.

The client was perceived negatively in the media and needed advice on how best to publicize the claim whilst avoiding a focus on the allegations against it.

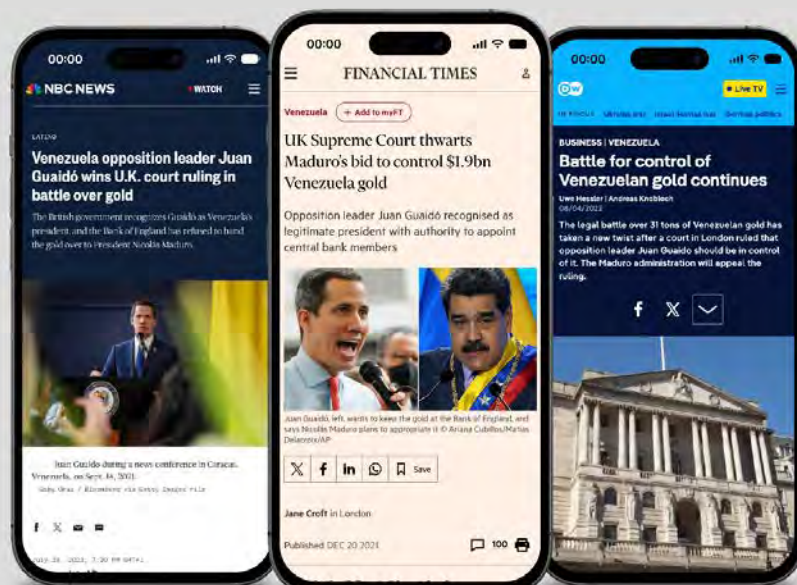

After reviewing details surrounding the claim, we prepared a strategy that would minimize avenues for media criticism while promoting key aspects of the client's case.

We successfully deployed this strategy in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic and through a series of expedited hearings.

Over three years, we extensively briefed key journalists in multiple jurisdictions regarding highly complex legal filings involving State Law, enabling journalists from the United States, Latin America, and Europe to report widely and accurately on our client's case in the face of extensive PR and lobbying efforts from the other side.

Our work resulted in over 6,000 pieces of coverage incorporating quotes from the client's legal representatives, the majority of which were positive towards our client's position.

As a result of our briefings, many articles sidelined the wider issues with our client's reputation to focus on the strength of their legal submissions.

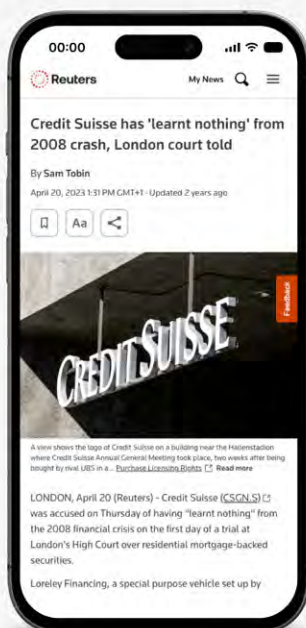

CREDIT SUISSE

LITIGATION PR AND TRIAL SUPPORT IN FRAUD DISPUTE WITH SWISS BANK

We were approached by a hedge fund in a $100m banking litigation with Credit Suisse in relation to residential mortgage-backed securities (RMBS) in the 2008 financial crash. The lawsuit centred on allegations of fraud concerning RMBS and we were retained in the week prior to the trial.

We provided media support both ahead of the trial and during the hearings, securing coverage in Bloomberg, the Financial Times, and Reuters, among others.

We also provided assistance during the first week of trial, managing document requests from journalists attending the hearing.

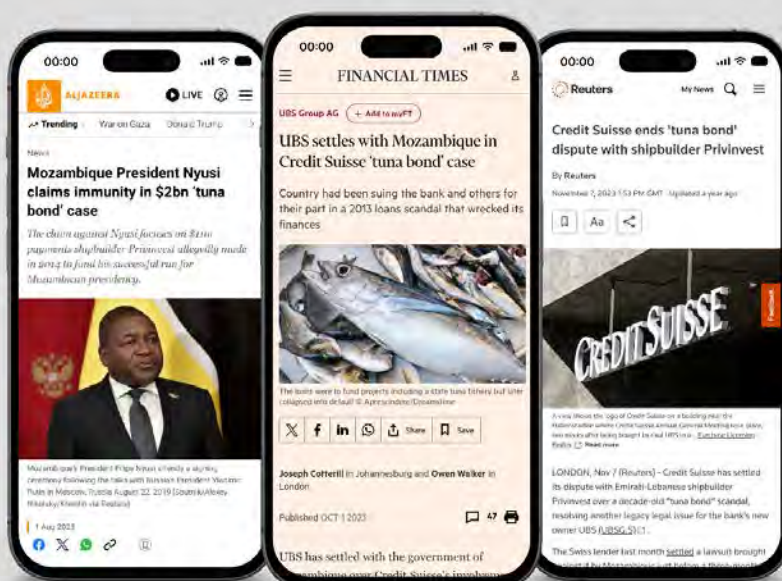

LITIGATION PR & REPUTATION MANAGEMENT FOR INTERNATIONAL SHIPBUILDER IN $2BN FRAUD AND CORRUPTION DISPUTE AGAINST THE REPUBLIC OF MOZAMBIQUE

We were approached by the legal team advising international shipbuilder Prinvest and its billionaire owner to advise in relation to its defence in the high-profile $2bn claim brought by the Republic of Mozambique against it and several international banks, which arose out of an infrastructure financing project in the country, which is now known as the "tuna bonds scandal".

Our work has sought to preserve the reputations of Prinvest and its owner in the media throughout the litigation, which is ongoing, and most recently, we advised Prinvest on the optimal way to communicate their settlement with Credit Suisse (now owned by UBS) to the media.

We have also assisted Prinvest in responding to media inquiries around the trial, earlier hearings and subsequent judgments.

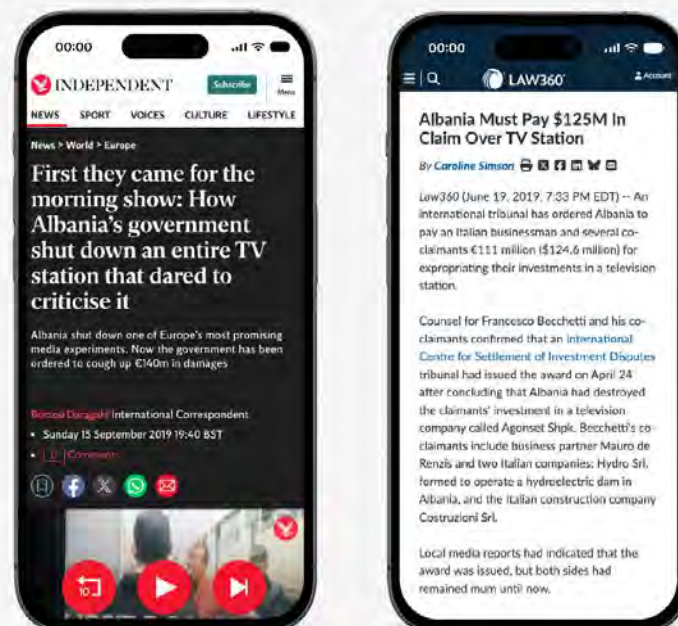

ENFORCEMENT PR FOR ARBITRATION AWARD AGAINST EUROPEAN STATE

We were retained by an international businessman with holdings across Europe to promote his success in a €130m arbitration against a European state.

The tribunal ruled that the state's president and government had undertaken a politically motivated campaign against our client, and their businesses in the jurisdiction had been illegally seized.

Our initial media liaison focused on publicizing the arbitration award. However, following delays in the enforcement process we needed to secure longer-form articles about our client's mistreatment by the other party in order to embarrass the state into satisfying the €130m arbitration award.

Due to our client's prior public profile in the United Kingdom, there was an initial media hostility that had to be overcome. We thoroughly briefed prominent international journalists on the story over the course of many months, and our work resulted in long-form features telling our client's story being published. In particular, we alerted one journalist to the attendance of the head of state at a conference in London, where the journalist attempted to interview them. Their refusal to comment was featured prominently in the following article.

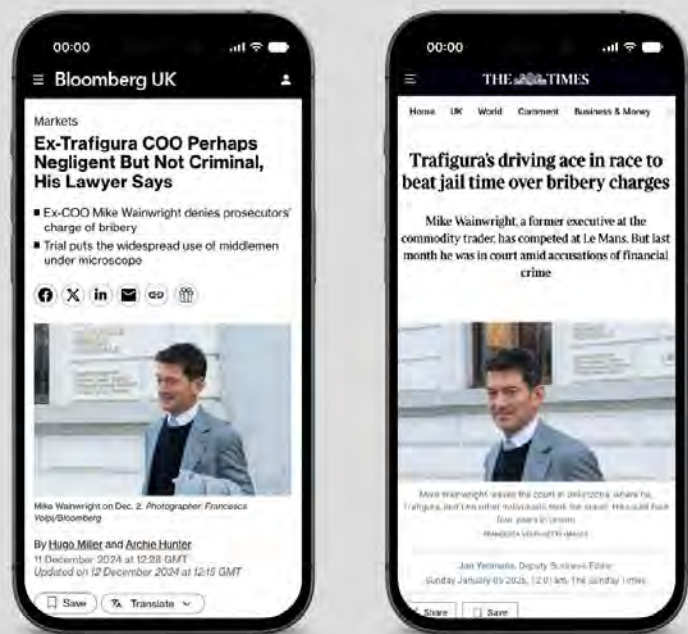

ACTING FOR AN EXECUTIVE OF ONE OF THE WORLD'S LARGEST COMMODITIES COMPANIES DEFENDING AGAINST CORRUPTION CHARGES IN SWITZERLAND

We were instructed by a high profile corporate executive to advise on criminal proceedings brought against them in Switzerland in relation to bribes allegedly paid to a foreign government official.

We provided extensive support to the client and their legal team, preparing narrative and key messaging points in the run up to the trial, briefing key international media on our client's arguments. We also conducted witness preparedness training for our client to best prepare them for cross-examination.

Crucially, we maintained a professional relationship with our client's former employer ensuring that media messaging was consistent across the board.

We deployed a team on the ground in Switzerland throughout the trial, working closely with the client and legal team to ensure that the case presented in court was as strong for the media as possible. Where stories were published that were detrimental to our client, we were successful in having them amended to better reflect our narrative.

ACTING FOR AVIATION MAGNATE IN HIGH-STAKES LITIGATION AGAINST UAE STATE, IN LONDON AND NEW YORK

Acting for international American aviation magnate, Farhad Azima, to provide strategic international PR support in relation to his litigations in both the U.K. and U.S., which involve multiple parties, namely international law firm Dechert, and the UAE state of Ras al Khaimah, via their sovereign wealth fund, RAKIA.

For several years we have been a key component of the legal team, advising on media strategy and investigations.

Our work has recently resulted in multi-million pound settlements in favor of our client, in both the U.K. and U.S. litigations.

We have secured broad international coverage for these cases on both sides of the Atlantic, including in The New York Times, The New Yorker and Reuters.

SETTLEMENT PR IN $4BN INTERNATIONAL SOVEREIGN LITIGATION

We represented one of the largest banks in the Middle East in their litigation with the UK government after they were incorrectly put on its sanctions list for allegedly enabling nuclear weapons proliferation.

At the time the litigation was the largest sanctions case in UK history and one of the biggest cases to be brought against the government with a damages claim of $4bn.

The Supreme Court found in our client's favor, with one judge concluding that targeting of the Bank by HM Treasury was "irrational and disproportionate".

We worked with the client's legal team to develop a media strategy that would push the government into settlement.

As proceedings opened, the government requested that the trial be delayed to allow for settlement discussions, which were concluded behind closed doors later that day.

LITIGATION PR FOR THE BITCOIN “TRIAL OF THE CENTURY”

We were instructed by the creator of Bitcoin, Dr. Craig S. Wright, a visionary Australian computer scientist, businessman, and inventor. In what became known as the Bitcoin “Trial of the Century” we supported Dr. Wright as he defended a claim brought against him by the family of his late business partner and computer forensics expert, David Kleiman.

At the center of the trial were 1.1 million Bitcoin, worth approximately $50 billion based on prices at the time. These were among the first Bitcoin to be created through mining and could only be owned by a person or entity involved with the digital currency from its beginning — such as Bitcoin’s creator, Satoshi Nakamoto.

We managed all communications aspects of litigation communications support for defendant Dr. Craig Wright in the case of Kleiman v Wright, including developing and deploying reactive press statements for potential trial outcomes and developments, drafting and distributing media briefings to key journalists reporting on the trial, ensuring our client’s arguments were put forward accurately and succinctly, as well as organizing pre-and post-trial interviews and briefings with select, high-profile, media outlets to spotlight our client’s arguments to a national and international audience.

We deployed a team on the ground to attend trial each day, managing the press on behalf of our client, ensuring fast and accurate reporting each day.

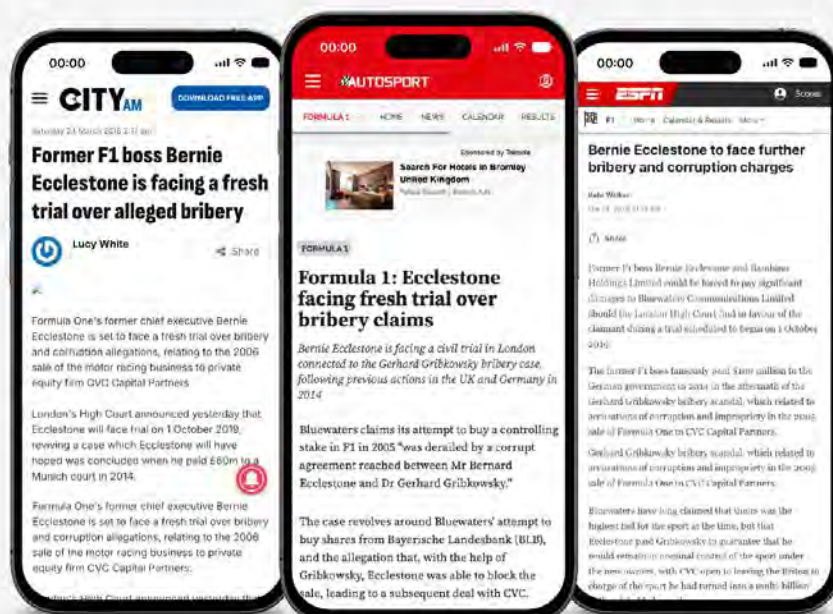

SETTLEMENT PR AGAINST FORMULA 1 AND BILLIONAIRE OWNER

We were approached by a hedge fund in a rights dispute with Formula One. The fund was keen to get compensation but did not have the stomach for a lengthy legal battle with Bernie Ecclestone, the Formula One Group CEO at the time.

We therefore took the unusual step of promoting the fund's Letter Before Action to F1, grabbing a significant amount of headlines around the first Case Management Conference. After the first public High Court hearing, a case management conference, we secured a series of articles in the national, legal and trade press, as well as an interview for our client's lawyer with the world's leading F1 journalist.

Demonstrating to F1 how our client's case was going to play in the media throughout the litigation through these articles, F1 ultimately settled out of court for an undisclosed multi-million pound sum.

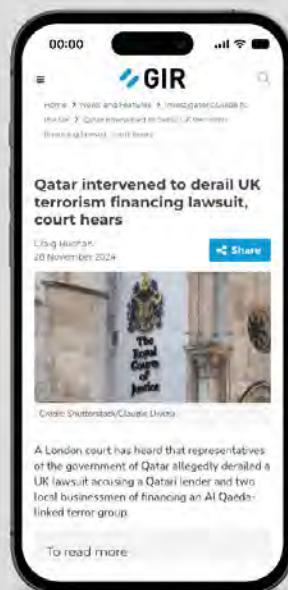

PROMOTING ALLEGATIONS AGAINST SOVEREIGN NATION IN UK TRIAL

We are currently engaged by the former legal representatives of a number of the Syrian diaspora, who were victims of torture at the hands of a proscribed terrorist organization.

The terror group was sponsored by a Gulf state that conducted a campaign of intimidation, subterfuge, and threats against the victims and witnesses. This led to a withdrawal, by the parties, from a legal action against agents of the gulf state.

At this stage we were engaged to counter a smear campaign against our clients. The Gulf state, and their associates, briefed media that the legal representatives for the victims of torture had somehow 'failed' them and only acted out of self-interest.

We are successfully protecting our clients' reputation by counter-briefing international journalists, ensuring they are properly informed of the facts and made aware of the true state of affairs. To this date our client's reputation has rightly been unsullied by actors sponsored by the Gulf state.

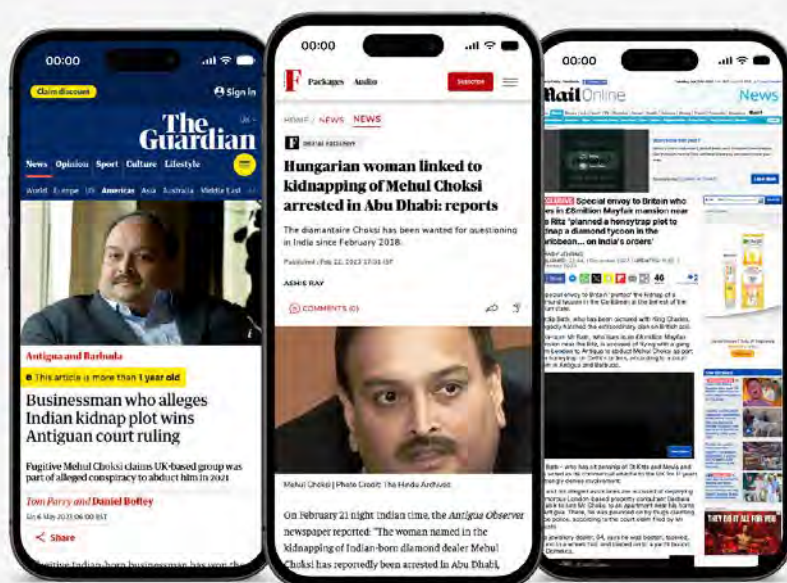

ADVISING UHNWI IN DISPUTE WITH HOME JURISDICTION AND COMBATTING INTERPOL RED NOTICE

We represent a billionaire wanted in their home jurisdiction over allegations centred around a large banking fraud.

Our client denies the allegations and is fighting them in the courts. Due to state controls over the media in that jurisdiction, our work has focused on presenting their case in the international media to support their position.

We have also assisted them in publicizing the details of their abduction, allegedly by individuals acting on behalf of their home jurisdiction, from their new home in the Caribbean. As well as securing media coverage, we worked closely with their legal team to prepare a presentation to the National Crime Agency in the UK to seek to bring the individuals responsible to justice.

Our client's case and efforts for his extradition has been made an area of major political dispute within his home jurisdiction. We have worked to protect his interests internationally, including promoting the successful removal of his Interpol Red Notice.

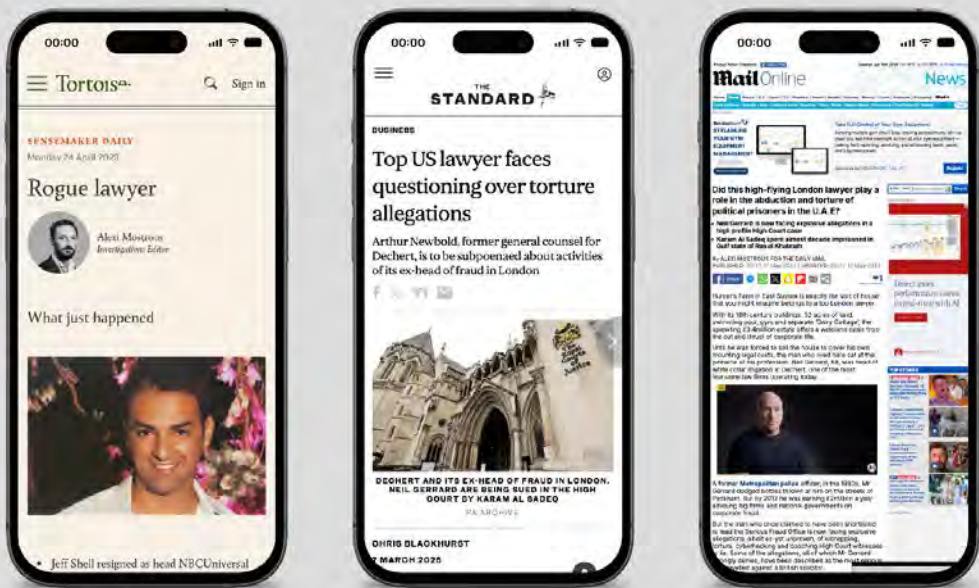

SUPPORTING POLITICAL PRISONERS

We were retained by a political prisoner in an autocratic state who was keen to expose the treatment they had suffered at the hands of both state authorities and their international legal advisors.

We worked to secure legal representation for the client with a prominent London-based law firm and assisted in determining the optimal way to structure their legal claim and a corresponding media strategy.

When the claim launched, we secured extensive media coverage of their plight, helping to ensure that they did not face excessive repercussions for going public with their story. We have continued to advise on legal strategy and built a network of individuals and organizations that are working to support our client.

We have continued to secure high-profile coverage of both the legal proceedings and their experiences, including national and international press, as well as a podcast including interviews with the client.

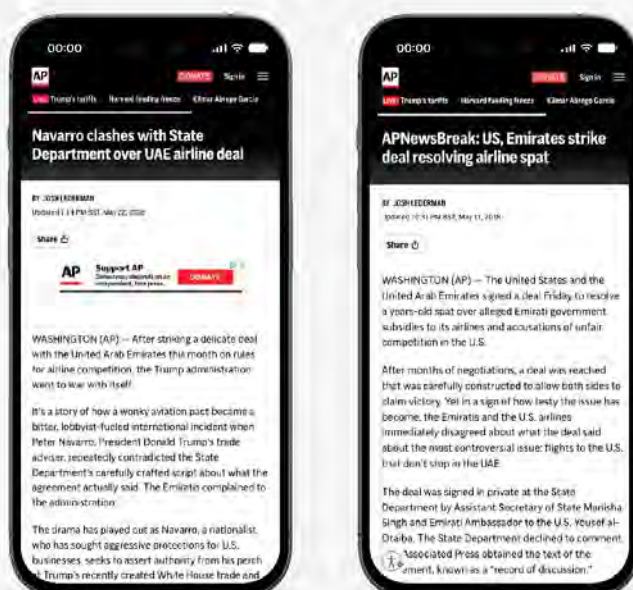

GOVERNMENT AFFAIRS AND STRATEGIC COMMUNICATIONS SUPPORT DURING HIGH STAKES BILATERAL INTERNATIONAL GOVERNMENT NEGOTIATIONS

Delta Air Lines, one of the “Big Three” U.S. carriers, was engaged in a high-stakes policy push urging the U.S. government to enforce existing Open Skies agreements and investigate whether Gulf carriers, particularly Qatar Airways and the UAE-backed airlines, were using state subsidies to circumvent fair competition.

Delta specifically raised concerns about Qatar’s acquisition of a 49% stake in Air Italy and the resulting expansion of transatlantic routes, which Delta argued violated the spirit of a 2018 U.S.-Qatar understanding.

We supported Delta’s efforts by managing a targeted education campaign with Washington-based national security and foreign policy reporters to clarify Delta’s position and ensure fair, informed coverage of the complex Open Skies issue. This work included organizing and staffing in-person briefings between Delta’s Head of Government Affairs, aviation counsel from WilmerHale, and key reporters and broadcast media including NBC, developing briefing documents for the client on each key reporter and their outlet, ensuring narrative consistency amid sensitive negotiations involving the White House, State Department, and foreign governments, and providing media support around timely developments, including op-eds by Delta’s CEO, letters from U.S. senators, and bilateral diplomatic outcomes.

Our efforts contributed to the U.S. securing nonbinding transparency commitments from Gulf carriers, including public disclosures of financials and assurances around route planning. Delta’s perspective was successfully elevated in Washington, helping to shape media narratives and drive policy conversations around fair competition in international aviation.
